NBAC MOUNTAIN TO THE SEA TRIATHLON
A First Class Event

The Triathlon made popular through national coverage of the "Iron Man" competition in Hawaii several years ago has grown in popularity across the country. Maine is no exception, though most of these are far less strenuous versions.

One of the finest events of it's kind offered in this state is Northern Bay Athletic Club's Mountain to the Sea Triathlon. Set in the enchanting coastal village of Blue Hill, this competition is a real gem worth pursuing. The Northern Bay Athletic Club, host for the five year old event, once again displays their reputation of excellent organization and course selection.

The MTS Triathlon begins at the Blue Hill Fairgrounds with a difficult Cross Country 10K run, softened by 3 miles of intermittent, groomed pine woods trails and mowed fields, including a rustic bridge across a mill stream.

Each segment of the race begins or ends in the village, sheltered in the cool shadow of Blue Hill Mountain. The canoe competitors voyage out onto the inner bay from the town park, looping a small island and returning to the town landing. A hearty 2.5 kilometers.

Cyclists will be pleased to know that the original course has been lengthened to 16K, beginning at the landing and finishing back at the Blue Hill Fairgrounds.

The same friendly attitude and aesthetically desireable atmosphere that pervades the tiny town of Blue Hill, carries through to this truly enjoyable event. On and off road trails, unusual awards, a post race drawing for merchandise prizes, and six team categories set this Triathlon a notch above some of the more publicized events.

This year's race begins at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, June 27. Check in and registration begins at 9:00. Team categories include family, business, mixed team (male-female), junior team, all male, and all female. Individual categories are male, female, masters and junior. 1987 individual winners and individual record holders are Barry Fifield and Cindy Vokey both of Portland and junior Brian Greenlaw of Blue Hill. Entry fee is $40.00/team and $15.00 for individuals. Food and drink coupons are included in the race packet. Commemorative T-shirts are free to all competitors.
