Buker Wins Two-Mile.

Raymond B. Buker of Eates college repeated his 1921 victory, when he won the international two-mile individual race from a classy field of 18 starters. Harper of Cornell set the pace in the first half mile, with the pack at his heels. N. Brown, also of Cornell, was the pacemaker at the end of the mile, which he recorded in 4 minutes 53 seconds. Romig of Pennsylvania State took the lead at the 1½-mile mark, which he completed in 7 minutes 22 seconds.

Buker, who had been satisfied to remain in the center of the closely bunched field up to this point, jumped into the lead at the pistol shot signaling the final lap, and with a steady sustained sprint ran away from his competitors, winning by 20 yards from Thomas of Hamilton, who followed the New England runner's pace the final lap and finished second over Romig, Penn State, by ten feet.
