LATEST LINE

Although they have lost twice, it is the belief of many observers that Washington is still the best team in the NFL. No argument better illustrates this than the fact that the Redskins have lost two games in a row, but they are still the team to watch in the playoffs. The Redskins are leading the way in the playoffs, and the Chargers are leading the way in the regular season. Washington is still the team to watch in the playoffs.

first and goal from the 1-yard line late in the fourth period.

Former Holy Cross quarterback Bob Martin threw three TD passes to lead the Cowboys, who were locked in a tight duel late in the game.

Martin hit Michael Giles for six on the second play of the game and later found Jeff Velt to build a 15-12 lead, aided by a safety.

Late in the game Martin rescued his team from deep in its end with a long pass to former University of Massachusetts star Gary Pearson. On the next play, he threw two yards for a TD to Maury Dullea to subdue to stubborn Raiders.

Tom Jung threw scoring passes to Dan Jones and Danny D'Alma for the Raiders.
