No, this isn't a box of your favorite breakfast food, so don't expect any toy surprises inside. What you can expect inside is an article by Bob Haskell of the Bangor Daily News on George Murray, Millinocket's renowned wheelchair athlete. Seems George is going to have his picture on the cover of thousands of boxes of Wheaties.

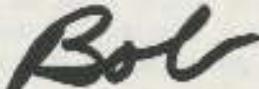

Wheaties is starting their second search for gifted amateur athletes to grace their boxes. Any suggestions? How about Joan Benoit, or Kim Beaulieu. It would be nice to see Maine put two in a row on the cover. Check out a box for the details. Also this month, we have a bunch of clubs checking in. Nice to see some photos from the County. How about Portland, Lewiston-Auburn, Central Maine and the Mid-Coast? Downeast and Southern Maine we want to picture your runners as well.

Steve Vaitones is with us again to explain how road race courses become certified.

Sandra Negrini of Portland writes about someone we all know and love - the proverbial injured runner.

There is St. Joe's news, "And in the Rest of the World..." and of course the Pack. You'll find the calendar very thin, so take some time to get back into those beautiful long easy winter runs.

Tanya, Brooke and I are awfully pleased to announce the birth of our newest family member - Ethan Robert Booker. He joined the staff here at Maine Running on Nov 14th at 1:14 in the afternoon. It will be a while before he can help his dad collate the magazine.

Preparing For Cold Weather Running

By Bob Barker

You can't fight it because it's inevitable. We've tallied it every so far, but sooner or later it's gonna get here - winter that is.

It's been wonderful running in the early morning, listening to the small birds and seeing the neighborhood wake up. Or

MAINE RUNNING INTO OTHER MEDIA

In an effort to reach more of the state's runners, Maine Running has expanded its scope into newspapers and radio. Maine Running, a weekly newspaper column is submitted to many of the state's dailies and weeklies. Maine Running, the newspaper column now appears on a frequent basis in the Valley Times of Pittsfield, the Courier-Gazette of Rockland, and the Bar Harbor Times. Has it appeared in your paper yet? Why not find out.

Every Friday at 5:50 p.m. Maine Running Magazine is heard over the air on WABI AM 91 in Bangor. Veteran George Hale and Rich Kimble have given me a lot of help in producing this informative 10 minute show. Hopefully, by spring, we will be in a position to market the show state-wide.

If you would like to more about Maine Running - the magazine, the newspaper column, or the radio show, feel free to contact us.

We're growing to serve the running community of Maine better.

MURRAY

by Bob Haskell
of the Bangor Daily News Staff

George Murray, who two years ago pushed his wheelchair from Los Angeles to his native Millinocket and into our hearts during the International Year of Disabled Persons, is about to wheel his way onto the breakfast tables of America.

Murray's picture next year will be featured on more than 1 million boxes of Wheaties according to Mary Tickle, a publicity assistant for General Mills, which is celebrating the 50th anniversary of the cereal's affiliation with famous sports personalities and the slogan "The Breakfast of Champions."

At 36, Murray is the oldest of six amateur athletes selected to appear on the Wheaties boxes beginning next June, the spokeswoman explained. "George will be one of the first, if not the first, to be pictured," she added. Each of the six will be featured for between two and four months, Tickle said.

The Maine native, who has been paralyzed from the waist down since he was 14 as the result of a hunting accident, will join an elite cast of athletes who have been pictured on boxes of Wheaties since 1933. That group includes Babe Ruth, Willie Mays and Bruce Jenner.

Amateur athletes, however, are being emphasized for this golden anniversary celebration. Murray, winner of the 1978 National Wheelchair Marathon in Boston and the 1981 World Wheelchair Marathon in Miami, Fla., is the only handicapped athlete among the chosen six.

Three men and three women were selected from among 50 finalists, Tickle explained. The other men are Sammy Chiquolla of Peoria, Ariz., a four-time state high school wrestling champion, and Christopher Spielman of Massillon, Ohio, a star linebacker and running back for his high school's football team.

The women are: Jody Bearman, Fort Wayne, Ind., Indiana's Miss Basketball for 1983; Leslie Deniz, Gridley, Calif., holder of the American women's discus record; and Mary T. Meagher, Louisville, Ky., a world-class butterfly swimmer.

The 50 finalists emerged from a group of 6,400 contestants who received ballots during a nationwide voting campaign which began last January, Tickle explained. The final six were selected from among the 50 by a panel of seven judges who included Bob Mathias, Willie Mays and Newsweek columnist Pete Axthelm.

The athletes will "absolutely not" be paid for appearing on the Wheaties boxes, Tickle stressed. But the organizations that sponsor them will profit to the tune of $2,000 apiece.

In Murray's case, the organization is the International Wheelchair Road Racers Club, Inc., located in Champaign, Ill. That is where Murray, the club's president, is living while pursuing a graduate degree at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana. He has earned his bachelor's degree in physical education from the University of South Florida in Tampa where he was named the outstanding graduating senior for 1983.

Murray, however, will not have to wait until next June to again receive the national exposure that came his way two years ago while he and Phil Carpenter of Holiday, Fla., pushed from Los Angeles to New York during the five-month Continental Quest.

He and the five other new Wheaties athletes will be pictured in a national ad which Tickle said will run in Sports Illustrated before the grocery store shelves of America are stocked with boxes bearing their photos.

The six will be honored during a ceremony at the Tavern-on-the-Green in New York's Central Park on Nov. 17.

Beginning early next summer, when his picture begins appearing on breakfast tables in the 50 states, it will be hard to dispute George Murray's claim to the designation of Maine's most inspirational athlete.

BREAKFAST OF CHAMPIONS

Saint Joseph's College

St. Joseph's College Cross-Country Coach, Brian T. Gillespie, has been named N.A.I.A. New England Coach of the Year. St. Joe's recently won the N.A.I.A. New England Championship for the third year in a row under Gillespie's leadership. His 3 year coaching record is now 88-4. Gillespie is a graduate of Cape Elizabeth High School and the University of Southern Maine. Brian "Ziggy" Gillespie is a well known name in the area sports circles, as one of the State's top semi-pro baseball players and distance runners. In 1970 Gillespie organized and founded the Maine Track Club, which has become one of the best running clubs in New England. The Boston Globe recently rated St. Joe's as one of the top 15 teams in New England, which includes all divisions. St. Joe's is Division III, with a male enrollment of 110!

A CURIOUS YOUNG RUNNER

A young lady wrote recently to ask why Gary Cochrane always had an "(M)" next to his name. No it doesn't mean he's marvelous, though some people think so, it stands for master (40-49) runner. Similarly, (S) stands for senior (50-59) and (V) stands for veteran (60-69). I'll try not to take as much for granted in the future. Thanks for the letter and the question.

METAMORPHOSIS

Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, copyright 1973 defines Metamorphosis as follows: "b. a striking alteration in appearance, character or circumstance"; all of the above apply to this situation.

I was sitting on the front porch reading, as he approached.
"Hi, how'd it go?"

He smiled as beads of sweat rolled down his face and dripped onto the ground from the end of his nose. "Not bad for being down for two months. And, of course I used the exercise bike all that time."

"Great. Any pain?"

"Not too bad, babe, not too bad at all. An aspirin free run and I can still move. I must be on the mend."

He smiled as he moved past me to go into the house. He wasn't the only one smiling. His sense of relief was great, but in a sense, mine was greater. Much greater!

It was great to have him "back on the road again". He had rested, done what the doctors had told him. He had even taken the medication they had prescribed. This fact alone was his first admittal to injury, to pain. If you know any serious runner, you know they do not admit to pain. They do not have time for injury. They are, for all intents and purposes, an odd breed. A breed apart.

I was really quite amazed to see the man handle the injury, the serious injury, the way he did. It showed a maturing attitude. His personality through it all was, CALM. I kid you not, calm and not all THAT ILL-TEMPERED! Oh, there were a few bad moments to be sure, but in all reality, an even tempered, semi-well adjusted man was living under the same roof as I was, and he was unable to run. No small feat for a man who usually runs 90 - 100 miles a week.

It's hard to believe he missed the entire Summer racing season, and the Fall might still be shot to hell, because there is an all too real possibility he may have to continue to rest. If this is the case, I wonder how long his good humor can remain? With Spring the next attainable goal, I can not help but think of the long Winter months ahead. I feel sad. This injury has robbed him of a chance, and that is sad.

They aren't invincible you know, these thick legged people who you see out in all kinds of weather, plodding along the highways and byways. Most of them like to think they are, and they are HELL to be around when they find out they aren't. I had figured the personality change that would accompany this injury would be comparable to the after effects of an atom bomb. To my surprise, he was not the same person I had figured him to be. Two years ago he would have said the hell with it and run anyway. The possibility of injuring himself for good would not have occurred to him then:

METAMORPHOSIS: The beginning runner becomes the intermediate runner, who then goes on to be the advanced runner. Life becomes livable for all concerned. And, while he trains for that winning season, you the spectator, the support person, train also. He will cross the finish line first, and you will be there to see him do it.

METAMORPHOSIS: You used to be glad just to see him finish, now, injury and all, you are ready to see him win.

CLUB NEWS

HOG BAY TROTTERS

The trotters have had a busy race season in 1983; putting on, helping, or competing in most area races. Club Vice President, Jim Newett, lead the way with many fine races, including 1st place in the Bangor Labor Day race, 4th at Kingfield, and 25th at Benjamins.

On September 10th we had our first fun run and cookout with about 30 racers of all ages and many parents and friends watching and helping out.

We had good turnouts at our twice weekly runs and Steve Coffins speed workouts in Hancock.

Our high school members all ran very well this season. The girls finished 3rd in the State with strong races by Kellie Stratton, Sandy Emerson, and April Payson. The boys placed 5th with the help of Don Rae and Andy Strout.

The club is now taking orders for racing singlets and shorts. Please respond if any members are interested.

I would like to thank Jim, Jan, Sheldon, Steve, Mark and everyone else for helping this season.

Tom Kirby

MAINE TRACK CLUB

Belated congratulations to Laurie Munson for having a PR that was over 15 minutes better than her best marathon time at Nike Marathon, Eugene, Oregon, with a time of 2:52. That's what you call, really putting it together.

Congratulations to Kim Beaulieu for being winner of the open category with a time of 6:30 at the American Medical Joggers Association 50 Miler, Chicago, Ill., in 85 degree heat. She never fails to amaze me. Kim was headed for NYC Marathon and I haven't heard how she did. Margie Adams qualified for Boston at NYC with a time of 3:20. Great comeback after recently becoming a mother.

GRAMMER SCHOOL - David Manthorne - Winner of Lyman Moore Invitational

HIGH SCHOOL - Jeff Pomroy - Paced the Cape Elizabeth Cross Country to Championships at the Triple C and Regionals held at Riverside. Congratulations on an excellent 4 years. Sarah Connors was top runner for the girls team this year and has progressed significantly. Barry Strom, who his old man forgot to mention for the club newsletter has gone out for the 4th year for C.E. and has worked at more than his share of MTC races. Lisa Wakem, Scarborough Cross Country Girl's Team has had another outstanding year as the Overall Girl's Cross Country Champion in Class B. Chris Kein, Outstanding year, his 4th at Cheverus leading his team in Class A at the State Championship at Waterville to come in 1st with a time of 16:29, Kevin Kein coming on strong in the top 3rd with a time of 17:47. Lisa Wakem had a time of 17:17 to win the State's in Class B and Sarah Connors led Cape for 8th with a time of 18:07. Jeff Pomroy really finished strong to lead Cape for 4th place with a time of 16:55.

COLLEGE - Virginia Connors came in 20th for Boston College as a freshman, to help secure their win of Big East and N.E. Championship. This is particularly outstanding when you consider the company she was running with.

Also I forgot to mention above that Kim won an expense paid trip to Western State's 100 Miler for her AMJA 50 Miler win.

BONNE BELL - 10K, Boston - Jerie Bugbee 43:21; Marian Leschey 48:30; and Pris Jolicouer time unknown.

Had a fantastic time at our 3rd Annual Pasta Party at Sprague Hall, Cape Elizabeth prior to Casco Bay Marathon. Had 81 or was 91 in attendance not counting all the youngsters. Helped out Russ and Joan Connors, Mike and Betty Worden, daughter Dina and friend, who have been holding down the fort for the last couple of years. Also had able assistance in serving from Jean Thomas, Al and Sandy Utterstrom, and clean-up from Bob Jolicouer, John Gale, Art Quint, Warren Wilson, and if I overlooked anyone, let me know. That same night while out settling his supper and trying to decide whether the body was ready for Casco Bay, one of our newest members, Orlando DeLogu was hit by a car even though he had on reflective gear, so you can't be too careful out here at night. Frankly, if you don't run with reflective gear, you may be inviting disaster and a little pen light will help them to see you and they will usually give you a lot more space.

HEARTBREAK HILL 10K - Steve Woodsum 38:08 - Great time on a tough course as Boston Marathon will attest to.

RECENT NEW MEMBERS who helped to push our membership to over 140 families are Tony Owens, Linda Durand, Sandra Phillips, Jill Van Hoogenstyn Raymond, Andy Pease, Orlando DeLogu, William Black Paul Alpert, Bill Davenny, John Eldredge, Margaret Soule, John McGovern, James McGovern, Harry Nelson, Mike Reali, and Tammy Carter.

NEW OFFICERS for the coming year were elected at last meeting at Public Safety Building - Russ Connors, President; Bob Jolicouer, Vice-President; Dave Trussell, Treasurer; Barb Footer, Secretary; Charlie Scribner & Brian St. Pierre, directors of Race Directors. Other officers I'll give you next time around, since I am already way overdue. Next month I'll get organized and get this damn typewriter fixed.

See you on the road.

WOODS RUNNERS

Ah yes - another column; my, my, how tempus does fugit! Wish my 10K times would

All is quiet in the woods. No one's running anyplace except on the hot top. With the influx of the good, old deerslayers and Nerdlie and Duane zapping around with rocket launchers mounted on their three wheelers, caution is the word!!

Even though three months must pass before the 3rd Annual Wild Katahdin Trust Snow Run, preparations are already under way; putting the anti-freeze to the buses, oiling Duane's shotgun, firing up the locals - and things and stuff.

There will be an added twist this year, taking a page out of the Great Down-east Marathon format. Katahdin High School currently has about a dozen graduates studying at the University of Maine in Farmington in different areas of special education. Ten of these young people spend their summers working at the Pine Tree Camp for the handicapped located in Oakland, Maine. One of the grads is Mike Noyes, who is currently working as a full time fund raiser for the camp. Whereas our area kids have such an attachment to the pursuit of helping other people, the Woods Runners and Katahdin Trust Co. felt they'd like to reach out and help a bit also. We will be making a local effort to help raise money through pledge sheets taken by high school students in our area. We will not be sending them outside of the "woods" unless someone should request them as we know you all have your own pet projects that you support so well and your registration and support of the race itself will be a big boost. We're shooting for 200 runners and if we can keep N and D downwind we could just make it!! Keep Saturday, February 11, 11:00 AM, in mind on your racing calendar. It's gonna be a dandy with the "mean runner" prize coming right out of Wacky Wheatleys' list of bizarre happenings!!

McLaughlin nailed a 2:48 at Casco, Tim Robinson a 3:03 (first one) Bruce Twombly had a 3:08. Nerdlie had a 77 hour, 23 minute, 14 second clocking. After the pre-race spaghetti feed he visited a few of the Old Fort's finest and demolished what few brain cells he had left, finally turning up at the Expo the following Wednesday. Occupants of a local patrol car, wrought with pity and hell-bent on getting old Nerd out of there in some big hurry palmed him off to a passing trucker, who, in turn, rolled him out at the Sherman exit. When asked about his experience, Nerd replied "just so's I got back in time for the Snow Run!!

Have a good one,

AROOSTOOK JOGGERNAUTS

Carol McElwee was awarded the Sam Ouellet trophy as runner of the year by the Aroostook County Joggernauts at their annual banquet and awards ceremony October 20.

The Caribou woman is the third recipient of the trophy in its four-year history. Port Fairfield's Robert Everett was the first runner of the year in 1980. Conrad Walton of Caribou was awarded the trophy the past two years.

The rotating trophy is given in honor of Sam Ouellet of Ashland, a Maine racing legend. At the age of 79 Ouellet runs countless races throughout Maine each year.

As this year's winner, McElwee competed in 18 races, winning the women's division in nine of them and taking second place in eight others. As a member of the second-place Northern Challenge Series women's team at the Benjamin's 10K race in Bangor last month, she was the team's first finisher and won third place in the junior master's division. McElwee has served as vice president of the joggernauts for two years.

Runner-of-the-year awards also were given by the Joggernauts in the various racing divisions.

Caribou's Jeff Cyr was honored as runner of the year in the 12-and-under category. During the entire season, Cyr was beaten only one time in his age division.

Dan Bustard of the Presque Isle cross-country team and Kim May, lead runner for the Caribou girls' cross-country team, were named the male and female runners of the year in the 13 to 17-year-old category. May, who dominated the women's age division, had her first race win at the University of Maine at Presque Isle Homecoming Race. Bustard, who won the age division in every race he entered this year, came up with his first race victory at the Old River Run.

The 18 to 29-year-old division was dominated by former Presque Isle cross-country runners Emily Higgins and David Mangus. Higgins won her division in every race she competed in this summer--nine wins in all. Mangus, who had three race wins, finished fourth or higher in 17 of the 19 races he entered.

Named the junior master women's runner of the year was Nancy Jackson of Caribou. Jackson, who competed most of the season with an injury, ran the Katahdin Trust Snow Run in record time and was the women's winner of the Caribou Labor Day Road Race.

With seven race wins in the County this season, Marlin Conrad of Loring Air Force Base was named junior master runner of the year. In addition to his showing in the County, Conrad won a couple of out-of-state races.

Darlene Higgins was named the women's runner of the year in the master's division. The Presque Isle woman also was chosen as the most improved runner of the year. In her first year of competition, Higgins won two races and earned a spot on the Northern Challenge team. As a member of the Northern team Higgins took the team's only first place in an age division at Benjamin's 10K in Bangor.

Undefeated in the men's master's category, Conrad Walton was selected as runner of the year in that division. Walton, a Caribou runner, was the men's winner of the Northern Challenge Series.

Sam Hamilton of Caribou was named the master's division runner of the year for the second year in a row. Sidelined by an injury in the latter half of the season, Hamilton dominated the early season.

Presented a special award as race supporter of the year was Milton Bailey of Presque Isle. Unable to run most of the season because of an injury, Bailey, nevertheless, attended every race and assisted race officials.

Mileage plaques were given to individual runners. Those Joggernauts running more than 2,000 miles during the past year were: Mike Mendonca of Loring Air Force Base, 3,425; Rusty Taylor of Ludlow, 2,816; Conrad Walton of Caribou, 2,594; Howard Paradis of Madawaska, 2,475; and Bob Duprey of Caribou, 2,045.

THE LONG AND THE SHORT OF IT

by Steve Vaitones, New England T.A.C.

The entry form reads "an accurate 5 miles" or "a carefully measured 10K", but how close to the actual distance is the race course? How can a runner be certain that the distance is "as advertised"? And, why should a race director care about course measurement? The only way one can be sure that the course is a true distance is to see the phrase "T.A.C. certified" on the entry.

To begin with, an accurate course makes comparison of results meaningful for tracking an individual's performance and for comparing strengths of fields and the relative difficulty of different courses. And, a certified course is required for any and all record distance and age group performances recognized by T.A.C. and the National Running Data Center.

Certification takes a little work and a little time, but it gives the runner and the director an honest course. An automobile odometer can produce a measurement from 2 to 5% shorter than the actual length. To certify a course, you must begin with a calibration course and a calibration device. The course should be ½ mile or 1 kilometer in length, straight and relatively flat, and either surveyed or measured with a steel tape with proper tension. This gives a true standard to use in measuring courses.

Secondly, a calibration device is necessary. The most accurate and widely accepted is a bicycle wheel counter known as a Clain Jones device (named after its maker). This device will record multiple counts for each revolution of the wheel when attached to the bike's front wheel. While a hand-pushed measuring wheel may also be used, it produces a less accurate measurement because of its tendency to bounce. If used, it must be pushed at a rate of 2 m.p.h. and it must also be calibrated the same as a bicycle counter.

Courses measured until January 1, 1985 are allowed a one-tenth of one percent tolerance, while those measured after that date will be allowed no short tolerance, i.e. the course must be at least the length or longer.

Before starting the actual measuring, the device must be calibrated over the calibration course. The course must be covered four times before measuring and twice after measuring to obtain an average constant to use for the day. The calibration must be done each time a course is measured because factors such as different riders, extreme weather conditions, and tire pressure differences can produce different constants. The course is ready to be measured.

Because a race generally wants to have a specific finish line rather than a set starting line, courses should be measured from finish to start. Before riding, calculate where all the intermediate splits will be; that is, the counter count for each mile or kilometer. Also, to make riding easier, have an assistant in a car to drive the approximate distance and do note taking and calculations.

Measure the course following the shortest possible path that a runner can take, including all short cuts. Measure 12 inches from curbs and do the riding when traffic is light to avoid swerving and adding extra and incorrect distance.

At each split, mark the location lightly and write a good description of the location. When this is complete, measure the course a second time, preferably the same day. (If a second day is necessary, the device must be calibrated again.) Mark the split locations again. Recalibrate the device, and, if it measures less, add the difference to the course.

As an extra precaution, add .01% of the course distance to the end of the course (this is only about 10 meters over a 10K course). When the course is finalized, mark the start, finish, and splits with chisel cuts or masonry nails in the pavement, since paint easily wears away during New England winters.

The final step is to fill out a detailed form and return it to the regional certification chairman (so, take good notes). If everything is in order, the course will receive notice of certification in several weeks.

This is just a brief overview of the certification process. The northeast regional T.A.C. certification chairman is Allan Steinfeld, 9 E., 89th St., New York, N.Y. 10028. You can obtain instructions and certification applications from him- but please enclose a large, self addressed, stamped envelope with two stamps, as this is a strictly volunteer position for him.

The Clain Jones measuring device can be obtained from Bill Noel, New York Road Runners Club, Box 881, F.D.R. Station, New York, N.Y. 10150. The device costs $16.00 and includes instructions for certification.

For the second year, Jane Welzel was the victor at the Avon/Ottawa 20K. Fighting off an early challenge from Karen Cosgrove, she eventually knocked over a minute off her '82 time by finishing in 1:12:34. Cosgrove was second in 1:13:21. Jane's time puts in the fourth spot on the annual 20K list; there should be no need to name the top runner with 1:09:10.

America's Marathon in Chicago offered prize money this year in its quest for big-time status. This allowed a Maine man and New Hampshire woman to pick up a few bucks. Hank Pfiffle was 15th overall, his 2:17:46 being only 12 seconds behind Greg Meyer. Hank netted $900 for his efforts. Karen Dunn was 5th woman and first American woman, picking up $3,000. Her time was 2:34:24.

The Boston College women annexed the Big East cross-country title at Franklin Park in mid-October. This despite Georgetown's Suzanne Girard, who set a meet record of 16:22:5 in winning this 5K race. BC was led by none other than Michelle Hailett, who ran 16:58 for 3rd place. The Eagles also have some new Maine blood in freshman Virginia Conners out of Cape Elizabeth High.

The newest addition to the marathon scene, the Bostonfest, has come and gone, proving itself to be a worthwhile event. It certainly was a showcase for some talented runners with Maine connections. The winner was Andy Palmer, who took over the lead around the 19-mile mark and cruised home in 2:16:25. In addition, Paul Operawski and Paul Hammond were fourth and seventh respectively. Operawski qualifying for the Olympic trials with a 2:19:11 and Hammond, a couple of minutes back, at 2:21:31. Another name familiar to Maine running fans was Gary Wallace, who placed 33rd (2:33:28). Among the women, Ann Marie Daree finished seventh in 2:51:13, also below the Olympic qualifying standard. Marjorie Podgajny was a little further back in 21st place (3:12:05).

Last month I mentioned that the IAAF was planning a 10K Championship road race for women. Latest word is that the race will be held in San Diego in early December. Speaking of interesting 10K's, Jack Grimm, a Texas oilman, sponsored a 10K in Buffalo Gap, Texas that paid a $20 entry fee to each applicant, $50 to each finisher, and $250 to division winners. The race was only promoted by word of mouth and he is planning more such races, so if you have family in Buffalo Gap, I'd stay in touch with them.
