MAINE MASTERS CHOOSE RUNNER OF THE YEAR

AAU/USA JUNIOR OLYMPIC STATE, REGIONAL AND NATIONAL X-COUNTRY RESULTS

MAINER BURNING 1/4

P.O. Box 259, E. Holden, Me. 04429

A brand new year. A time for reflection and resolution. I remember one of the first resolutions I ever made about my running. In the late fall of 1978 I resolved at Cape Elizabeth that one day I would earn the Maine Master's annual award for outstanding contribution to running when I saw Dick Goodie hand the award to Rick Krause and Vern Putney. Well, this year the Maine Masters saw fit to extend that honor to me and I am indeed humbly grateful to them for it. I hope that my work in the future will demonstrate my worthiness to deserve such an honor.

However, I'm not so quietly reserved about their choice of Maine's Male and Female Runner's of the Year. I'm quite loud in my praise of Mike Gaige and Kim Beaulieu. Mike had a great year winning such races as the Bangor Labor Day 5 Miler, the Blueberry Run, the prestigious Great Cranberry Island 5K and the new and exciting Schoodic Point 15K. He beat almost all of Maine's finest distance runners in head-to-head competition and even pushed Andy at the Matt's 8 miler in Vermont. And all this from a man who doesn't run during the winter because of asthma.

Kim was her usual self winning Waramaug and the Ultra plus Casco Bay. She had to win a lot of these races while commuting up from Boston where she is attending graduate school. I bet she even gets A's there!

Thank you Maine Masters for helping make my resolutions come true. Can you help with a 2:50 marathon?

BONNIE BELL THRILL

by Kathy Dall China

Can you imagine what it would be like to run with 7,500 other runners on a cool, sunny day while thousands of people cheered you on to the finish line? Incredible!

On October 11, Jeanne Pernice and I celebrated Columbus Day in Boston along with women from all over the country who were in town for the Sixth Annual Bonnie Bell 10K Road Race.

The George Washington statue in the public gardens was a popular meeting place for Maine runners and supporters before the race. Chip Carey and his entourage from Kingfield were gathered in front of the statue when we arrived. It was great to see everyone wearing their Kelly green Kingfield T-shirts. The Kingfield ladies also added the Sugarloaf Mountain stickers to the back of their shorts for local color. Kevin Purcell (our official China photographer) along with his wife, Irene and daughter, Gretchen joined the friendly group. Soon Connie Towne from Winslow jogged around the statue followed by Sandy and John Peters of Brunswick. After our reunion and photo session we met Jo and Dave Comeau from China as we all headed for the race. Jo was seeded 329!

Tension and excitement filled the air around 11:55 as the runners (packed like sardines in the 17 marked sections) anxiously awaited the official start of the race between the Boston Common and Public Gardens. I was a nervous wreck! Visions of being trampled filled my head. This was only my second 10K race, and I just wanted to finish with my body intact. Seconds before noon, thousands of voices chanted 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1! Then hundreds of red, white and blue balloons were finally released to mark the official start of the 6.2 mile race through Boston and Cambridge.

I was located in the middle of the pack (number 3,235/Section 9), and it took over two minutes for my group to walk to the starting line. Slowly we began to jog along Charles Street with the "Overture of 1812" playing in the background. Then the strains of the Olympic theme song seemed to motivate the runners. The pace increased slightly, but passing was extremely difficult since you had to concentrate on your footing as well as the runners in front of you. I stayed on the right hand side in order to weave in and out of the mob when an opening was available. The women were polite, friendly and very supportive of each other. The majority of the runners seemed to be in the race to experience a good time. It would be difficult to improve your "personal best" unless you were located in the first five sections. High spirits were obvious as the women waved to the spectators, cheered, sang and chanted "go, go, go" while passing under bridges. There was never a dull moment! It was a pleasant surprise to see a runner dressed in a colorful clown costume wearing over-sized New Balance Shoes, but it was a shock to watch two girls run bare-footed over cobblestones and broken glass.

The crowd control was excellent, and the spectators were fantastic! People lined bridges, walls, sidewalks, buildings, cars and trees waving signs and loudly encouraging all the runners. (My Kingfield T-shirt received a favorable response.) Fraternity brothers crammed together on tiny balconies to view and cheer the women, and the high-spirited women boisterously hailed the "brothers" in return. A group of motorcyclists started up their engines to the delight of everyone.

The race was obviouly well-organized. There were four ambulances around the route and three medical stations. A school bus followed the race to pick up runners in distress. Seven water stations were available and splits were called at each mile on this relatively flat course.

Before the three mile mark it was quite a sight to catch a glimpse of the top-seeded runners fly past us. Just to be running in the largest woman's road race in the world with world class runners was exciting. Around the 3½ mile mark the pack finally started to thin out. You could relax a little and not worry about being trampled. The view over the Harvard Bridge was a spectacular sight as several sail boats cruised down the Charles River while hundreds of colorful runners headed for Commonwealth Avenue. When the pack raced toward Boylston Street, the thundering voices of the crowd informed the runners that the end was almost in sight. The encouragement from the spectators was overwhelming, but greatly appreciated.

I was elated when I finally spotted the finish line and the eight different chutes. I had run with thousands of others and I had survived the race without even being trampled !! What a race! What an experience! What a way to celebrate Columbus Day! I am definitely looking forward to the Seventh Annual Bonnie Bell in 1983.

Romember Jo Comeau? She placed 119th, and she finished the race in 39:28. Watch out World Class Runners!

RUNNIN' Wild

As a novice reporter, I was very much excited by the prospect of interviewing members of the Woodsrunners. My assignment was simple enough: find out what the runners were avowing to do or not to do in 1983. My enthusiasm was soon dampened, however as I realized the runners (except Nurdlie) were resolving to do the same thing. The runners (except Nurdlie) had xerox copy ideas for their future running-universally resolved were the following:

- In 1983 I resolve to change my stockings before they get quarantined by H.U.D., H.E.W., S.M.O.O.S.A. and L.U.R.C.
 - I resolve to load carbohydrates only three evenings a week
 - I resolve to increase my duffle bag
 - I resolve to send my 5000 dirty T-shirts to a laundramat and on and on

Being a bit bored by these resolutions, I decided to stop at the nearest "loading zone" to check out some other runners. It was at this "waterin hole" that I encountered "Nurdlie". Nurdlie beckoned me over to the vacant spot at the bar and gazed intently at his brew. He had heard through the runner's grapevine that I was interested in resolutions and had a unique one for me.

It seems that Nurdlie is a solid member of the Woodsrunners a newly formed club from Patten - Sherman area. He has been running with his buddy Duane for years. Both are semi-respectable-at-best members of the running community. They usually attend races, prerace sessions, and post race frolics together. Knowing this, I was wondering what possible resolution Nurdlie could make that was so unique.

He went on to say he had resolved never to attend a race outside of the Haynesville woods with ole Duane again. He recounted how Duane had lately been acting up at races from Fort Kent to Portland. Duane had been a little upset about how some other running clubs had been putting down the Woodsrunners and had launched a personal campaign to portray the Woodsrunners in an even worse light. His dim mind somehow figured that kind of reverse logic would annoy the "snobs" - as he called them.

Nurdlie motioned to the bar maid and started to tell the rest of his tale.

On their latest excursion, it seems Duane wandered around, supposedly looking for something in a large grocery store. Seeing his Woods-runners shirt and pegging him a bumpkin, a clerk came over and offered assistance. Duane said "yes man, can you direct me to the shake and bake for muskrat?"

Later, still displaying his T-shirt, he lined up for the race start among the classiest runners in the pack; spat, blew his nose with his thumb, and just (in general) grossed out the ladies something awful. Still later, he was seen in the "Attic" inquiring about Red Ball Jet racing flats.

Nurdlie asked if the rationale for his resolution seemed adequate. I allowed that it was, and that even I was appalled by Duane's out-rageous behavior.

In closing - fellow runners if you see a Woodsrunner; don't be too quick to judge. It just might not be Duane. But themagain.....

DICK BALL - THE METAMORPHIC PEN BAY PACER

by Ted DeNardo

Seven years ago Dick Ball at age 43 weighed 196 pounds, smoked over two packs of cigarettes a day, and had a heart attack. Today, Dick weighs a trim 160 pounds, doesn't smoke, and runs mornings before going to work for the New England Telephone Co. He claims he never felt better in his life and wishes that all out of condition people would realize the harm they are doing to their bodies.

Dick didn't come to the good physical condition he enjoys now overnight. First, he quit smoking, went on a diet, and stopped drinking beer. Then, he started walking with his wife Bea for about two years. He was inspired to start running by the example of an older runner in his neighborhood. At first Dick couldn't even run between telephone poles. But, he persevered, and has kept a log of all his running mileage. By the end of this month he figures he will have covered a total of 4,000 miles.

Dick enjoys his morning runs (averages 35 miles a week), entering races, and taking part in the Pacers Sunday morning fun runs. His best time for the 10K is 48:30.

Dick will be retiring from his job at the end of the month and taking an extended vacation with his wife to the Southwest. He hopes to finally have the time then to build up his mileage so he can successfully run a marathon. That's his dream.

When asked how long he intends to keep running, Dick says forever because it has made such a dramatic change for the good on his life. We especially enjoys being a member of the Pen Bay Pacers because of the comraderic it affords, the support for his running efforts and the running information he picks up.

All the Pacers wish Dick a healthy and happy retirement and hope he and his wife, Bea, don't forget to come back to Maine. We will miss the fun runs they hosted so graciously at their home.

THE FRONT RUNNER

Everyone knows the winner. His position in the race keeps him conspicuous. The crowd, awed by his excellence, returns weekly to pay tribute to this talent and tenacity. There is another runner very few recognize. This individual runs far ahead of the winner - not minutes ahead but hours and sometimes days. He measures the distance precisely, plans his water stops carefully and steps across the finish line long before the cheusing crow? arrives. He is the front runner.

Six years ago, Bob Coughlin, uninspired by Sunday afternoon football, put foot through South Portland towards Scarborough. His brisk early pace quickly became torture as he limped toward home. Overweight, middle aged and with little endurance, his rehabilitation started. Each week bought an extra mile. Five miles turned into ten miles; then the marathon and eventually the 50 mile run. He illustrated Emerson's thought that nothing worthwhile could be accomplished without enthusiasm. As a school principal he understood how enthusiasm generated more enthusiasm. More and more runners joined the long Saturday morning run through Cape Elizabeth extending themselves to distances fit for the marathon.

Choosing Bob as our Maine Track Club president was easy and logical. He understood clearly that participation was winning and the finish line was a celebration for everyone. The payoff from running was obvious, but needed advertising which he did by encouraging all ages and speeds to keep moving. He pressed the newspapers to publish rach results beyond the first twenty finishers. That request was initiated for others as Bob's performance was always visible in that top group. In the Master's division, his effort became polished with two hour and fifty minute marathons.

Bob's term as president ends in December. He emphasized that organizations, like races, are not sustained by any one individual. The members of the Maine Track Club and others throughout the state extend our effort and appreciation to Bob for his untiring contribution.

1982 Rowdy Ultra 50 Mile Race

Forty-one runners toed the line for the start of the 4th Bowdy Ultra 50 mile race at 7:30 a.m. on November 14, 1982. The conditions were nearly ideal for the entire race, with temperatures in the 40's under sunny skies and very light winds.

Bernd Heinrich, Rock Green and Jim Murphy took the lead from the first, but only Bernd was prepared to play for keeps on this day. The Vermont runner steadily opened up a lead which built up to 8 minutes by the marathon mark. Green and Murphy retired at 42 and 26 miles respectively and Heinrich lapped the second place runner at about his 38 mile mark and never looked back, finishing first with a solid performance of 5:22:48. Dave Roberts, in his first ultra attempt came in second with a fine 5:59:30.

In the women's division, local runner Kim Beaulieu, winner of the 1982 Waramaug, seemed to get stronger as the race went on. Her early 4 mile splits were 32 minutes, but she ran the last 8 miles in 58 minutes to finish in 6:22:56, a PR for her and a national class performance.

Twenty-one runners reached the 50 mile distance. Among notable performers were Bill Fox, 61, charging through the distance in spite of his wife's wishes end Shirley Packard and Carolyn Gayton, both of whom only completed their first marathon in 1982. Deke Talbot turned in a modest 7:03:50 and preserved his place in planetary running history by being the only person to complete all four Rowdy Ultras.

Sam Butcher directed the race again.

Phil Soule, Y. Bill Gayton, Lawson Noyes, Gary Cochrane, Rock E. Green, Charlie Gordon and Eric McNett will run the Heritage 50 Miler in North Adams, MA on Dec. 5th. Congratulations to Rowdie Danny Paul who won the Augusta Elks h marathon in 1:10:47. Rock E. Green, Gary Cochrane and Eric McNett are back in the racing circuit. Latest up date on the Rowdie of the Year status - Lawson Noyes overtook Wayne Clark last Wednesday night at 1:32 a.m. e.s.t. Lawson's feat may be seen on "That's Incredible" while the rest of the Rowdles can be seen on "Real People" and I wrote this because "You Asked For It". ŒR 1e AND FROM THE REST OF THE WORLD ...

Bill Peabody 7 Nancy Drive Brunswick, Me. 04011

Seems like its always hard to get a good relationship underway. Sometimes you're not too sure what to say or how to act. Well hang on for a few paragraphs and I think it will all come together in a few minutes.

In broad terms this column will be about running outside of Maine. For the most part this will mean news about runners from Maine who compete elsewhere. But there will be more than just news about these people, you will get reports on people, events, competitions, whatever, that occur on the outside but have an impact here. I will probably feel free to editorialize from time to time. But the core will be coverage of what and how Maine athletes are doing out there. Hopefully it will be elite without being elitist. In other words, you will hear about Joan Benoit and Bruce Bickford but I will try to keep track of "beginners" like michelle Hallett and Kalen Cookson who are reaching for regional or national status.

Now a bit about Bill Peabody so you have an idea how much salt to pour on these words. From junior high through early college I ran track. Even after spending ten years gaining and losing fifty extra pounds, when I returned to running I returned to the track often in preference to the roads. So you may see more about track and field on these pages than most readers are used to or even want. But at least you'll know why.

Before we get underway, I hope you recall my very first sentence. The use of the word relationship was meant to be significant. Because this column won't work unless it is a relationship. This writer wants all the input he can get; from coaches, training partners, friends and relatives of runners competing outside Maine. Send me news, call me up and talk to me. I have a feeling I will need all the information and insight you can feed me. I may not use it all, I'm going to feel free to question, confirm, alter, amplify or whatever. When it hits these pages its all mine, so then you have to let me know when I've blown it.

When talk turns to the "big time" runners Joan Benoit comes to mind first and with good reason. Now the holder of three American records in "standard" road distances she deserves that level of recognition. The most recent record being a 2:26:11 in the Nike/OTC Marathon in Eugene, Oregon (Sept. 12), this has been topped only by Allison Roe (2:25:29) and Grete Waitz (2:25:42). Just two weeks prior to this she warmed up with a ten-miler in 53:18, also an American record. Her other AR is in the half marathon with a time of 1:11:16 set last year. Not often reported hereabouts Joan did some track running in Eugene over the summer, the best of which was a 32:30.08 10,000 meters.

For the men, Bruce Bickford is one of our more visible exports. He recently made a move undercover to compete in the UConn Relays (Nov. 20). No details are available but Bruce won the mile in an outstanding 3:53:55 and followed that with an 8:20.67 win in the two mile.

Hank Pfeifle seems to be getting around some and doing quite well. He had a good September starting with the American National Bank Run in New Haven, CT (Sep 6). Hank finished eighth (1:00:41) to people like Rodgers (2nd), Beardsley (5th), Ryan (6th), and Hodge (7th). The winner? Greg Meyer with a new AR 58:26. Then just under two weeks later (Sept. 19) he put in an appearance at the Philadelphia Half-Marathon. Hank had to "settle" for tenth, running 1:04:37. But he was not in slow company. Winner Mike Musyoki of Kenya set what appears to be a World Record clocking 1:01:35 and George Malloy, in second, lowered the national standard to 1:01:42.

A word about Jane Welzel, winner of this year's Good Sports 10 Miler, who I have unilaterally adopted as a Mainer. Over the last couple of months she has annexed a couple of wins in the Avon Series. She captured the Ottawa 20K (Sept. 5) by running the first five 5 C f vi th thou' in 17:15 and hanging on to win in 1:13:40. Then in New York's Central Park (Oct. 2) Jane established a new course record in winning the 2nd Annaul Avon Women's Half Marathon. Her time, 1:15:44, is one of the top performances this year.

'Tis the time of year for cross-country. In fact its championship time. Both Colby and Bates had noteworthy results. In the NCAA Division III regional qualifier at Franklin Park in Boston, Colby was second to Brandeis while Bates finished third. Todd Coffin of Colby (and Bath) won the event covering the five mile course in 23:38. Runnerup was teammate Rob Edson (Keene, N.H.) only two seconds back. Bates' top finisher was Jamie Goodberlet (Buckfield, Me.) in 7th at 25:06. Kelly Dodge, Colby and Seabrook, N.H., got the eleventh spot with 25:12. Due to agreements among the New England Small College Athletic Conference Schools, Colby and Bates could not go on to the Nationals as teams but the individual qualifiers were able to compete. The Nationals were held Nov. 20th in Fredonia, N.Y. over a 8,000 meter course. The top Maine-related finisher was Edson who was 5th (26:37), the best ever by a Colby runner. This earned Rob All-American honors, an accolade which goes to the top twenty-five runners. Coffin was 27th (27:14) and Kelly Dodge was 41st (27:32). Kelly was an All-American last year. Jamie Goodberlet ended up in the top 25% of the field, finishing just behind Dodge.

The TAC National Cross-Country Championships featured a couple of Mainers. Joan Benoit was fourth, covering the 5000 meter course in 16:12. Since the first 9 runners in this race constitute the U.S. team to the 1983 World Champlonships she won a trip to Gateshead, England this coming March. Bruce Bickford did not fare quite so well running 29:40 for the men's lok route, this placed him 21st. For some reason the men's team is not selected here but at a special qualifying race in Edwardsville, Ill. to be held a month before the Worlds, so Bruce could still be in the running for a spot on the team.

on several recent high school graduates. Michelle Hallett, as regular readers are aware, of Mars Hill is off to Boston College, running under Judi St. Hillare. Michele recently won the Greater Boston Collegete cross-country race. She also was second woman in a Boston-area 10K clocking 35:07. The whereabouts of a couple of Cheverus High athletes has come to my attention. State Class A mile and half-mile champ Mike England is off to UConn, as yet no reports of his activities there. Javalin recordholder (206'4") Kalen Cookson is attending Duke and throwing quite well. (A side bar to pro football fans, the high school javalin record is held by ex-Patriot star Russ Francis, 259'9").

Some of you may have noticed that I have not mentioned the AAU age-group cross-country runners. This is certainly not because the results are unimpressive because the opposite is true. But the coverage by local and statewide newspapers has been a pleasant surprise. It has been prompt and complete if not overly colorful. While on the subject of newspapers, if some of you missed the feature on Sam Pelletier, Fort Kent and UMO, in the Dec. 5 i-sue of the Maine Sunday Telegram, it may be worth your while to dig it out before someone starts a fire with it.

And to end this, a couple of tid bits from the international scene. The IAAF (international ruling body for track and field) Congress has made some decisions and is studying some possibilities that should be of interest to the road-racing community. They will sponsor a women's 10% road championship in late 1983. They also have decided to hold a World Cup Marathon for men and women with team scoring in 1985, and have instructed the Long Distance Committee to study the possibility of a World Road Championship and a world marathon circuit.

TRYING TRIATHLONS, PART TWO: FUEL

The fuels necessary to train for and compete in a triathlon are water, carbo-hydrates, protein and fat, roughly in that order. While water is not a fuel in the sense of an energy store, it is an essential ingredient in rigorous triathlon training, for proper metabolic breakdown and to prevent dehydration.

Dehydration is a threat even swimming, especially in the ocean, where the undrinkable is also a constrictor due to salinity.

Yet nothing absorbs water and energy like cycling; the constant working of the large muscle groups: thighs, calves, upper body balance, keeping the head up, standing to the sprint, reaching for food and water, all take an enormous toll. It is only during this phase when the carbohydrates can be consumed. A small daypack, at least, is necessary to carry bananas, granola bars, oranges, breads, whatever one can carry and consume. Finding out what foods are best for your body takes considerable trial and error, since many foods have to be considered by weight and bulk. For Instance, an orange gives high sugar, but a pack full is impractical.

A wide variety of foods may be consumed in triathlon training; the breakdown roughly approximating 60% complex carbohydrates, 30% proteins, 10% fat, figures according to the American Academy of Sciences. In actuality, the percentages usually adjust to 75/20/5, given the enormous amount of energy required. As nutritionist, John Frachella points out, "contrary to popular opinion, carbohydrates are not tiny Hershey bars running around in the blood stream!" Carbohydrate consumption stores glycogen in the muscles; glycogen is the primary source of energy in any physical activity. Complex carbs, such as salads, fruits, grains and pastas are preferable to simple carbs such as processed cereals, grains and other high sucrose sources because simple carbs are absorbed too quickly and become unusable fats. Protein and fat sources include eggs, nuts, soy products, peanut butter and meat. Supplements, if taken, should be water soluble vitamins B, C and E and calcium.

Next issue, we'll look at the events themselves: swimming, biking and running, techniques for each, a recap of training and a look at the year ahead, the Year of the Triathlon.

OLYMPIC TRIALS SIGHTS

Men - Buffalo, New York, 1st or 2nd weekend in May, 1984. The sight was selected by a sub-committee of the Long Distance Running Committee. It won out over Burlington, VT, Newport, R.I., Los Angeles, and New York City. Even an impassioned plea by Fred Lebow in front of the International Competition Committee wouldn't sway the vote. Buffalo apparantly rated highest on a total point scale rating several factors. Same course as 1980. The qualifying time will be the 100th fastest performance of 1982. The qualifying period will be Boston 83 to Boston 84, inclusive. Top qualifiers will get their way paid. (Exact number not yet desided.)

Women - Olympia, WA May 1984
Site was selected by Women's Distance Running Committee after presentations by all groups presenting bids. It won over Buffalo, LA, NYC, and Kansas City, Olympia's presentation was outstanding.
The course is almost a loop. Net drop in elevation of 140'. Course will be entirely closed to traffic. Qualifying standard not yet set. All qualifiers will have their way paid.

THE CARTER'S GROVE COUNTRY ROAD 8 MILER

by Steve Moriarty Portland

Whenever I travel I always make it a point to take along my running gear in the hope that at some place I might stumble upon an interesting race or running event. More often than not I either fail to find a race or discover that I've arrived too late or too early to take part. My luck changed on a recent trip to Virginia when I picked up a copy of the local Williamsburg paper and discovered an ad announcing the running of the "Carter's Grove Country Road 8 Miler" the following morning.

I had a strong suspicion that too many days of long-distance driving and too many nights on the hard-packed earth of Tenessee and Virginia campgrounds had taken the edge off my running attack, but I couldn't resist. I had already spent a couple of days touring the magnificent restored areas of Colonial Williamsburg, and the slumbering instincts of the former history major were coming back to life. The more I learned of the history of Carter's Grove the more determined I became to be a part of the race.

Carter's Grove is an imposing brick plantation built on the shores of the James River by Carter Burwell, grandson of one of the wealthiest and most powerful landowners of the area in the early eighteenth century. Completed in 1755, the mansion has frequently (and accurately) been described as one of the most beautiful homes in America, and has been witness to some interesting events of the early history of our country. For example, in an elegant first floor parlor both George Washington and Thomas Jefferson are said to have proposed to prominent local ladies, and both were rejected for the reason that their prospects were not sufficiently promising. The parlor has since been known as the "Refusal Room."

British troops were quartered in the house during the Yorktown campaign in the fall of 1781, and evidently found the accommodations so comfortable that they slept as a Colonial unit slipped by to join forces with Washington. Upon discovering this lapse in readiness, an irate British colonel roused his men by riding his horse up the broad central staircase, slashing at the bannister with his sword as he went. The bannister still bears the marks of the colonel's fury, and there is a small piece of metal embedded in the railing that is said to be the tip of his sword. Doubtful, perhaps, but how else did it get there?

More importantly, Carter's Grove is the site of the long vanished community of Wolstenholme Towne, a settlement established in 1619 in a larger tract of land then known as Martin's Hundred. Seventeenth century artifacts and the remains of buildings have been discovered at several locations on the grounds, and the original fort and military compound have been located several hundred feet from the mansion on the banks of the river. The settlement flourished until March, 1622, when many of the inhabitants were killed in a general Indian uprising, and it was abandoned shortly afterward. Wolstenholme Towne disappeared from view and memory for nearly three and a half centuries until it was uncovered in archeological excavations in the 1970's, and it has provided a wealth of information about the earliest years of the English colonization of America.

This was the setting for the start of the race. We were bussed from Williams-burg to the plantation, and I loosened up by jogging around the main buildings and then down through the fields to the stillness of the remains of Wolstenholme Towne. Although it was still early on a mid-September morning, the temperature began to climb rapidly and by 9:00 it felt like July in Maine. Roughly 340 runners gathered along the long, stately driveway leading to the mansion, and we were off to the unmistakably loud crack of a musket.

The Country Road is a narrow and relatively new roadway that links Carter's Grove directly with Colonial Williamsburg, eight miles away. The road twists through a landscape of forest and lowland substantially unchanged since the times of the first settlers, and the terrain was sufficiently hilly to make the course a challenge. This was the third year of the running of the race, and despite the temperatures, new records were set in the men's and women's divisions at 40:57 and 52:04, respectively. Although my own performance was not par-Licularly noteworthy, thanks to my Maine Track Club jersey I was singled out as the runner having come the greatest distance to take part in the race.

Later in the day I went back to Carter's Grove for a longer and slowerpaced visit, and I let my mind slip back centuries into the past. How amazing the desperate settlers of 1622 and the genteel planters of the eighteenth century would have been to have witnessed our peculiar form of recreation, and to have seen the infinite ways in which our cultures had changed. I began to see the race itself as a symbol of the wast differences between the modern era and the societies of colonial times, and as I left I felt a quiet sense of respect for the sacrifices of those who had lived in this spot so many years before.

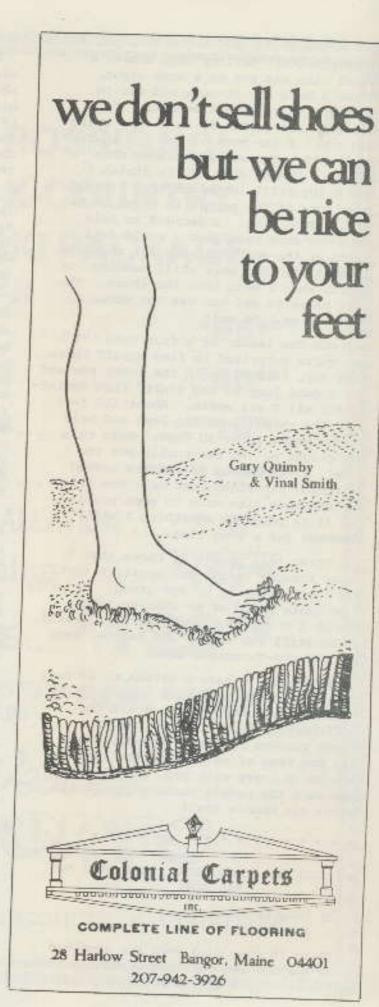

LIFE FROM THE BACK OF THE PACK

by Jack Paul Parmington

First T would like to say that I have nothing against those of you who run in the front of the pack. I would like to be up there with you, but my body has limitations, so I will have to be content to see the backs of your heads in the beginning of the race and cheer you on at out-and-bank races.

There is much competition back in the pack. It usually shows up near the end of the race though, not right from the beginning. It shows up in forms like this - You and a total stranger pace each other most of the race and with a half mile or so to go, you both Lurn It on and race to the wire just as if you were quing for first place. The main thing about this type of competition is that you usually don't mind coming in second.

This is not to say that back of the pack racing is not without its disappointments. Earlier this summer a local race was run on a week night. I had a hard day at work and was in no shape to race that evening. I decided just to run it as a hard training run. I ran most of the way in the back with women womewhat older than myself. Coming down to the finish I had a lot still in me and knew I could pass some of the people in front of me with a good kick. I decided to hold back and save myself so I could feel fresh at the end of a race for a change. I could see they were still handing out shirts when I went into the shoot. The last place to get one was the woman in front of me. Oh well.

I was the leader of a race once. I was quite surprised to find myself there. That day, I lined up in the front row and got a good jump at the start, then sprinted for all I was worth. About 100 feet into the race I took the lead and held it for maybe 20 or 30 feet. When this guy caught me (he eventually won the race), great masses of runners seemed to follow him right past me. Now this may not seem like much to some people, but it is probably something I will remember for a long time.

I often tell people at races that I enter because I fill an important spot, the last person in my age group. Actually I am quite proud of my running, even though I'm not the fastest runner around, I can still run faster and farther than all the non-runners I know.

As of today I have a streak of 63 days in a row that I have run. And I am continually setting PR's at all the different distances I run. So you front runners be ready, someday I and all the rest of us back of the packers, may be up there with you, and just see how well the people running the finish shoot can handle that!

RUNNING AND BLOOD FATS: GOOD NEWS AND BAD NEWS

by Roberta Hickman Augusta

There is some good news and some had news for men who run long distances or get other types of vigorous exercise. First, the good news! Exercising regularly and vigorously increases a man's ability to break down and clear fat from his plasma (the cell-free liquid portion of uncoagulated blood). Exercise raises the level in the blood of the fat breakdown product called NDL2, which may protect against coronary heart disease.

The bad news is that if a runner stops running for as little as three weeks, his blood plasma may become "milky" with fat after each meal, his HDL2 level may decline and his risk of heart disease may increase.

Premenopausal women have HDL2 levels that are roughly three times higher than male levels. Since women already have this protection, exercise may not be as important for them. However, after menopause, HDL2 levels decrease and the risk of heart disease quickly rises. It is good that younger women are running, swimming and engaging in other vigorous, aerobic activities because it is difficult to establish these healthful habits later in life when exercise may be most beneficial.

MDL2 and HDL3 are the major subclasses of high-density lipo-proteins. These particles are formed from the enzymatic breakdown of the fat-rich lipo-proteins called VLDL (very low density lipo-proteins). Higher concentrations of HDL2 indicate that individuals are clearing the "fat load" from their plasma after a meal at a faster rate than an individual with lower HDL2 levels.

In a study, a standarized fatty meal was fed to 28 healthy individuals, 28 to 42 years of age. Fat levels in their plasma were determined at 0, 2, 4, 6, and 8 hours after the meal. The plasma of the individuals with high HDL2 levels remained clear throughout the 8 hour period. Those with low HDL2 levels had very milky plasma after the meal.

Response to a fatty meal can change with exercise. A man who had previously had low HDL2 levels and very milky plasma 2, 4, and 6 hours after the fatty meal, was retested 1½ years later when he was running more than 20 miles per week. At that time, his HDL2 level was higher and his plasma clearer. When he was tested one year later, he had been running 50 miles per week in preparation for a marathon. His HDL2 level was about five times higher than it had been at the beginning of the study and his plasma remained clear after the meal. When an injury forced him to stop running for three weeks, his HDL2 level and response to the meal returned to what they had been before he began running. Six weeks after resuming his exercise, his HDL2 level was up again.

These results suggest that men should stay physically very active. If they quit working out, this particular benefit of higher HDL2 levels quickly disappears. Exercise should not be used as a medication taken only when you feel you need it. Exercise and adherence to a prudent diet should be a life-long commitment.

(The principle investigator of this study, Dr. Josef R. Patsch, M.D., was awarded the American Heart Association's 1982 Irvine H. Page Arterisclerosis Research Prize for young investigators. Dr. Patsch, a native of Australia and accomplished alpine skier, switched to running when he moved to Houston, TX in 1975.)

IF THE SHOE FITS ...

by Dr. Roy Corbin, Podiatrist Bangor

The great running shoe renaissance began a decade ago, around the same time that the importance of foot and leg biomechanics was becoming appreciated by the running community. And, along with foot awareness came running shoe awareness.

Statistically, the great changes in running shoe design has effected the change in the type of injuries seen. Forefoot and toenail injuries have decreased due to toe room expansion, and readfoot and leg problems are becoming more prevalent as runners are now able to go longer distances more comfortably due to these changes in design.

Good fitting running shoes are essential to the support and protection of your feet as they pound the pavement. There are many brands and hundreds of models to choose from, and no one pair is right for everyone. Fortunately, most good running footwear is sold by runners who are usually very familiar with the different "built into" features and which are right for you.

I will list a few basic guidelines which I recommend you follow:

- * The shoes (try both on) should be comfortable in the store. Don't expect the fit to improve with time.
- * The part around the back of the heel is called the counter and it should be firm and fit snugly; if it slides in the store, it will slide when you run.
- * The sole should flex easily at the widest part of the shoe.
- * The midsole (spongy middle layer of the sole) should be substantial, even more so if you are a heavier runner because you'll need more shock absorption.
- * Try shoes on in the afternoon to allow for swelling.
- * The widest part of your foot should be at the widest part of the shoe.
- * There should be a finger's width distance between your longest toe and the end of the shoe.
- * Wear the same weight sock you plan to run in, and brong any foot supporting device you plan to run with when you go to the store.
- * Always compare your preferred shoe in the next size larger and smaller to assure proper fit.
- * Quality control your new shoes by inspecting the overall construction and placing them on a flat surface. When viewing from behind the heel should be straight up and down.

Remember, racing flats are for racing and training shoes are for training, and the shoes you run in should not be used for streetwear....save them for your runs.

And don't forget, if the shoe doesn't fit, don't wear it.

RACE DIRECTORS!

Suppose you gave a race and no one came?

Make sure your race is mentioned in the Maine Running Annual Edition due out on Yebruary first. Send your 1983 race date, location, starting time, fee, distance, awards, and contact nerson, address and phone number to MR before the January 10th deadline. We want the 1983 calendar to be the most complete ever. And while you are at it, plan now to run your race flyer in Maine Bunning at least once before the big event. All we need are 700 copies of your flyer and a check for $15. Better still mention that the complete results of your race will be published in Maine Bunning Magazine and make that check out for only $12. If you would prefer that we do all the printing, send a photo-ready entry blank on white paper to us and we'll print it and insert it into our magazine for just $50.
