

the night, the first production pleased the people that they didn't want to pay money to see any more. Bates students put up a clever exhibition, which added interest to the meet.

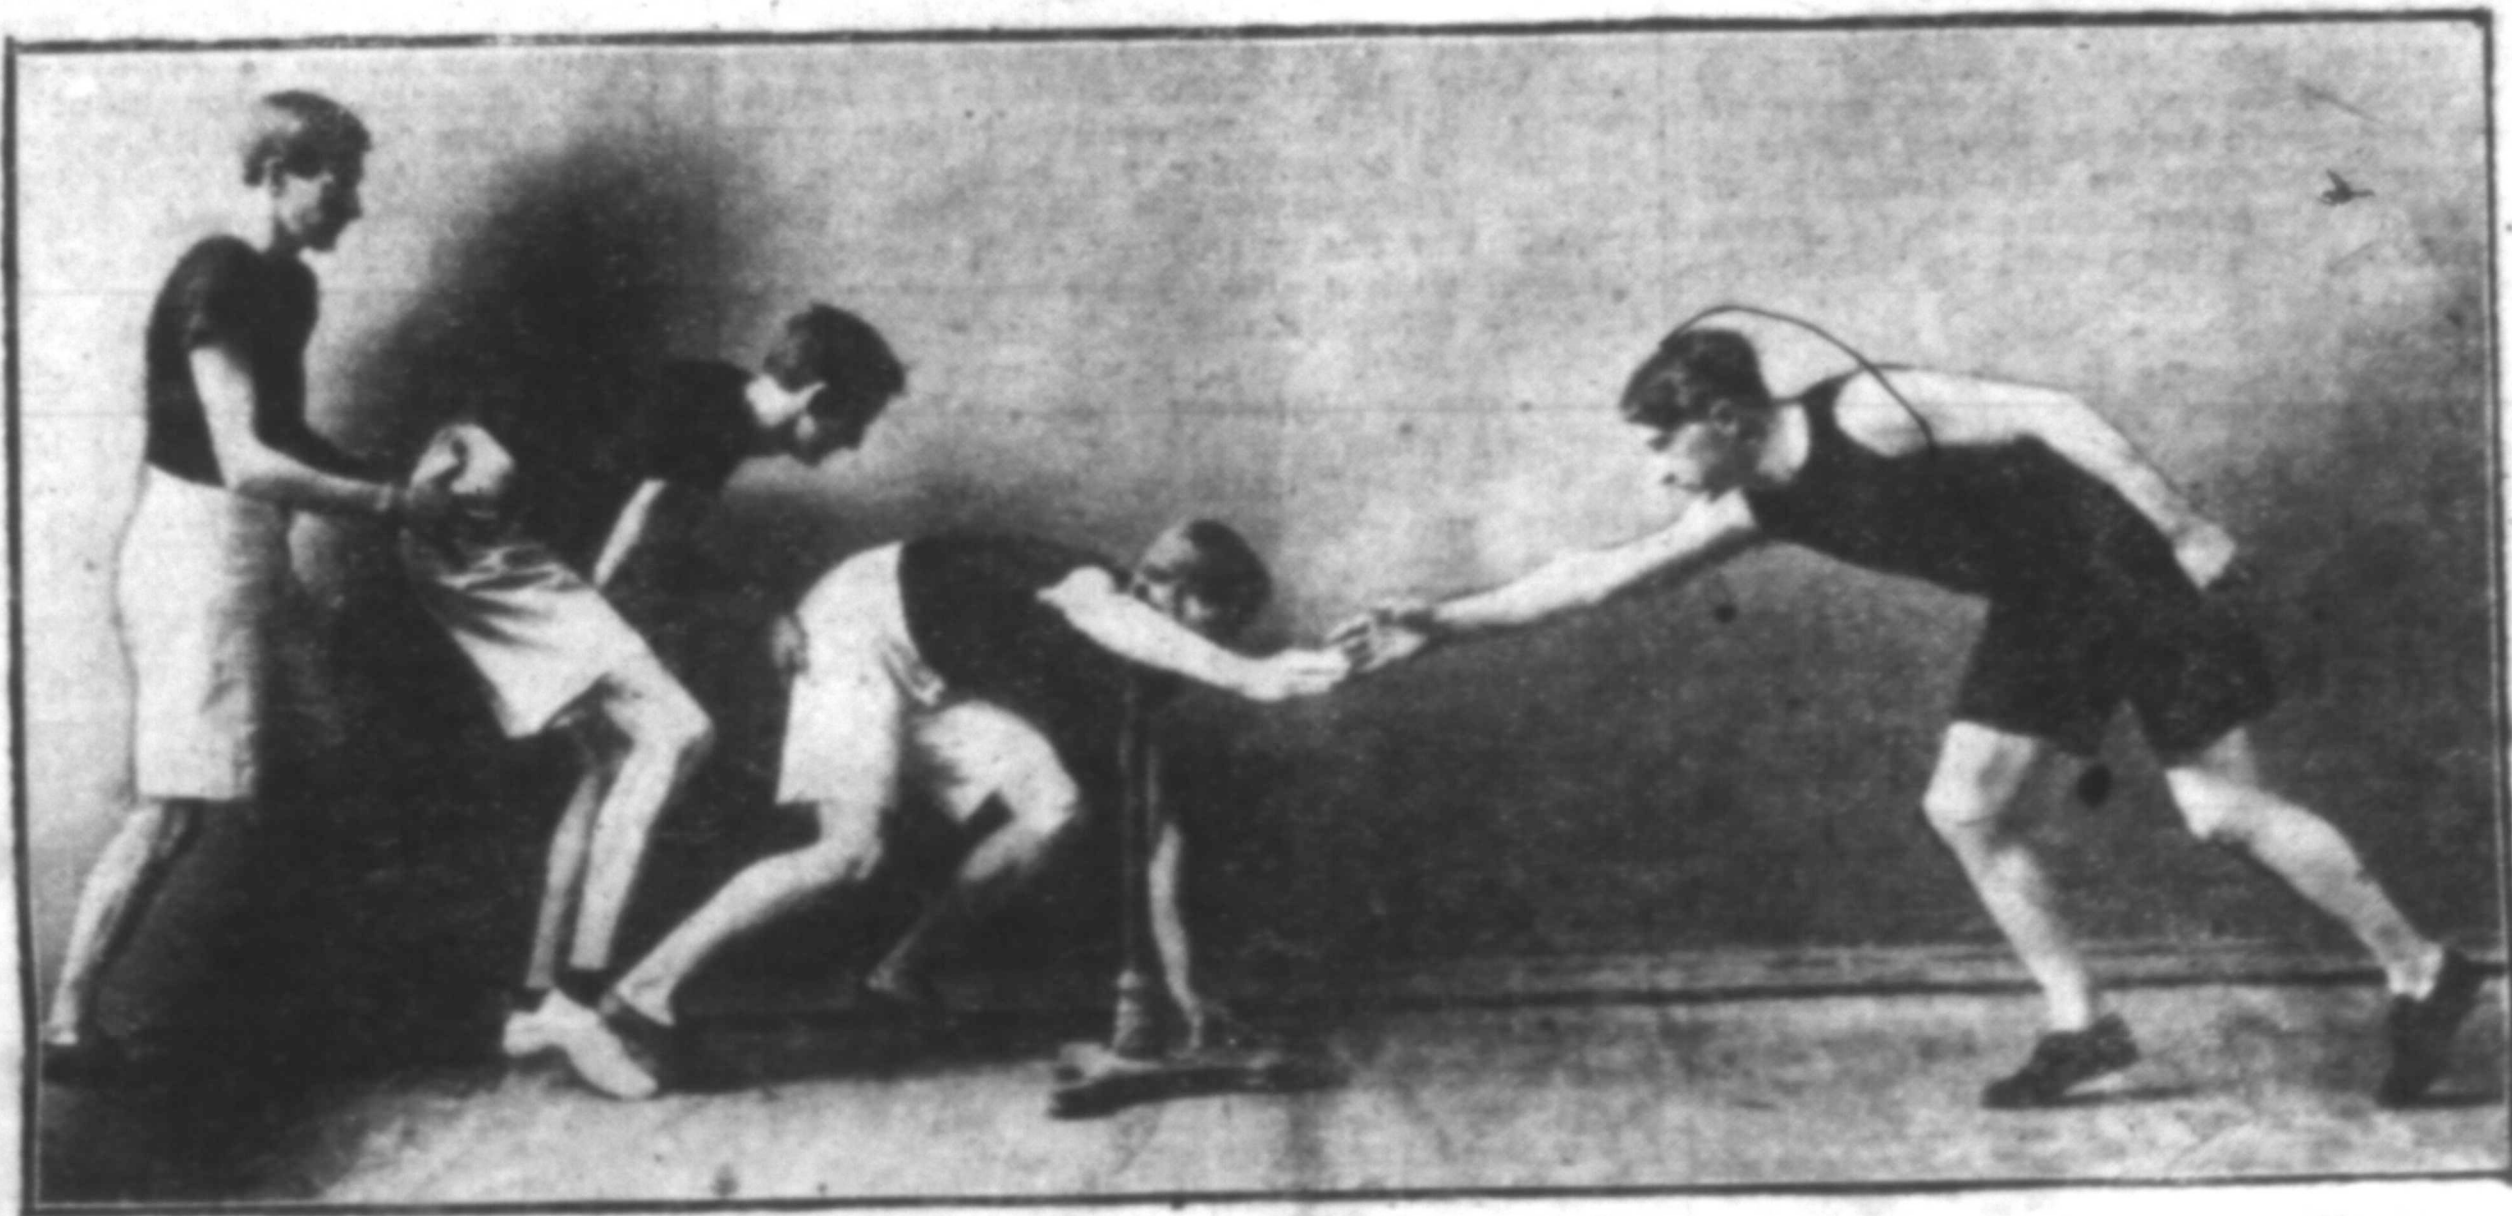

Indoor baseball is played like the national game only on a smaller scale. It bears the same relation to the outdoor throughout the season. The players were fined repeatedly for fouling, and if the juniors had been successful in their goal throwing, they would have won the game. Holding and pushing were about the only serious faults in the work of the '08 team.

All of the points won by the juniors into the program like a vaudeville performance into high tragedy. The starters were Spooner, '06, Ramsdell, '07, Hepburn, '08, and Robinson, '06.
